Sin boldly!

BUT TRUST MORE BOLDLY IN CHRIST WHO IS OUR VICTOR OVER SIN, DEATH AND THE WORLD!

Chances are you've heard that quote before from Martin Luther, "Sin boldly!" A lot of people like to quote it (as you might imagine). But did you know the rest of it? For some reason (is it obvious to you, too?), the second part of it gets dropped off like an autumn leaf. But that is the most important piece of Luther's advice! And advice is exactly what this oft-quoted Lutheran saying is. Not just advice for anyone, mind you (as if the world needed any more encouragement to do what comes naturally, namely, sinning).

During this month (and 500th year!) of Reformation celebrations, it is good to look at the historical and spiritual context of this controversial quote, lest our Reformation celebrations today take a tragic wrong turn, and we get accused of sinning too boldly!

- Martin Luther

There has been over the centuries much ink spilt over the controversies surrounding the freedom of a Christian and, in particular, whether Lutherans advocate the abrogation of God's moral law.

After all, some say, it's all grace, isn't it - so, who needs to worry about the good works of the Law anymore? This position, known as antinomianism, was officially condemned by our Lutheran Confessions (see Formula of Concord, Article V). Luther himself expressed shock that after expounding the Law so carefully and copiously (including instructions on how to practically live out God's moral law in his Large and Small Catechisms, for example), he still, nevertheless, had to fend off charges that he wholly dismissed good works and God's Law and advocated, in effect, a license to sin. Nonsense!

To set the record straight, hear Luther in his own words: “We are saved by faith alone, but the faith that saves is never alone.” In his Introduction To Romans, Luther further describes this saving faith as “a living, creative, active and powerful thing, this faith. Faith cannot help doing good works constantly. It doesn't stop to ask if good works ought to be done, but before anyone asks, it already has done them and continues to do them without ceasing. Anyone who does not do good works in this manner is an unbeliever... Thus, it is just as impossible to separate faith and works as it is to separate heat and light from fire!”

That doesn't sound like someone who dismisses good works and the Law, does it? Still Luther insisted (quoting St Paul), “No one can be made right with God by following the law. The law only shows us our sin” (Romans 3:20). Our problem is that even our good works, often tainted by selfish or other impure motives, are never good enough to justify us before God's throne. So, Paul also clarifies this important truth to the Galatians,

“We know that a person is not justified by works of the law but through faith in Jesus Christ” (Gal 2:16). From these and other passages the take away is that our good works don't save us (Christ's perfect work for us saves us), but we are still called to good works as an outgrowth of faith and as an outreach to our neighbor.

Okay, so all that sounds well and good, but where does this “Sin boldly” come in, then? That sounds like a transgression of God's Law. Yes, but there's something worse: that is, when our esteem of the Law becomes an obstacle to the Gospel (as with the “foolish Galatians,” in chapter 3 of the same book). Poor, miserable sinners do not usually confuse the proper roles of the Law and of the Gospel, because they know all too well how they cannot possibly keep all of God's moral law. Their failure at law-keeping leaves them desperately looking for a “Plan B,” some other way of salvation. That is, to look for salvation by grace alone through faith alone on account of Christ alone

- all outside of themselves. How blessed are the poor in spirit, indeed! No, it is not to poor, miserable sinners that Luther offers his advice but to Galatian-type Christians, who begin by the Spirit of grace and somewhere along the line get puffed up into thinking that now they can go the rest of the distance on their own good deeds and do not have to rely on the Gospel, the Good News of Jesus Christ, any longer. The Gospel to them is like training wheels, which at some point in their progress in personal holiness, they feel they do not need any longer. “We got this!” they say. In effect they, themselves, become their own “good news” for doing a “good job” in their own eyes.

Sadly, I've known some people like this over my years in different churches. They are deceived into thinking that they can sustain a sinless streak longer and longer to the point of finally reaching moral perfection. Perfectionism is actually taught as an achievable doctrine in some Christian circles. They start calculating and contorting their daily record so as to excuse this sin or that to keep their supposed streak clean, instead of sorrowfully confessing (as Luther puts it in the Catechism) that, “we daily sin much, and indeed deserve nothing but punishment.”

Now, it is just to this self-righteous and mislead religionist that Luther's famous advice applies, “Sin boldly - then more boldly put your trust in Christ the Victor over sin!” You see, it is better to commit a clear-cut sin that opens your eyes to your need for God's offer of grace in Christ than it is to die in the deception of trusting in your own righteousness. Neither should you hang your assurance of salvation on your own Christian improvement. Isaiah (64:6) calls our righteousness “filthy rags.” How foolish would it be to stand before the Almighty in filthy rags on that dreadful day when all mortal flesh is summoned to give an account? We have a robe of Christ's perfect righteousness with which God graciously clothes us (Is 61:10). By conceding a sin, Luther is not urging the recipient of his counsel to go commit a harmful act against his neighbor; rather, he is admonishing this deceived person to cease the Pharisaical charade he's been keeping up in order to avoid real spiritual and eternal harm to himself. One is reminded of our Lord's words, “It is better for you to enter life crippled or lame than with two hands or two feet to be thrown into the eternal fire (Mt 18:8). In this case, mar your record of so-called “righteousness” and save your soul.

We don't need to wallow and worry whether we made it through this day or this week (or this minute) without sinning. Thank God! All our sins are covered by Christ's finished work on the cross for us. He is our Righteousness. His banner over me is love - a love that covers a multitude of sins. Let your confidence be in Christ alone! And let His abounding grace fill you up and flow through you to love others boldly in His Name. That's the message recovered in the Reformation. And that's worth celebrating. Happy 500th Anniversary!

Indulge in a movie night out!

500th Anniversary

Don't Miss This One-Night Movie Event at Edwards Camarillo on OCT 3, 2017 at 6:30pm.

This special screening is the perfect outreach opportunity - a chance to invite friends and neighbors to an event in a community setting. This entertaining new film follows the great adventure story of Luther's life, packed with political intrigue, kidnappings, and life-or-death showdowns. At the same time, it's a story about the most important questions of life, including "Who am I?" "What is my purpose?" and "How do I get right with God?"

It's a must-see for any lifelong Lutheran, and a chance to share the message of your Lutheran heritage with others. And the only place you can see the film is in the theater on the night of our church's special event.

This is the first time in more than 60 years that Lutherans have made a feature-length film about Martin Luther and the Reformation. Filmed in historic locations across Europe, this movie brings Luther's story to life with exquisite attention to detail. It's a chance to strengthen your faith by revisiting the birth of Protestant Reformation, and to share that experience with others.

✚ PARENTS NEED HELP ✚

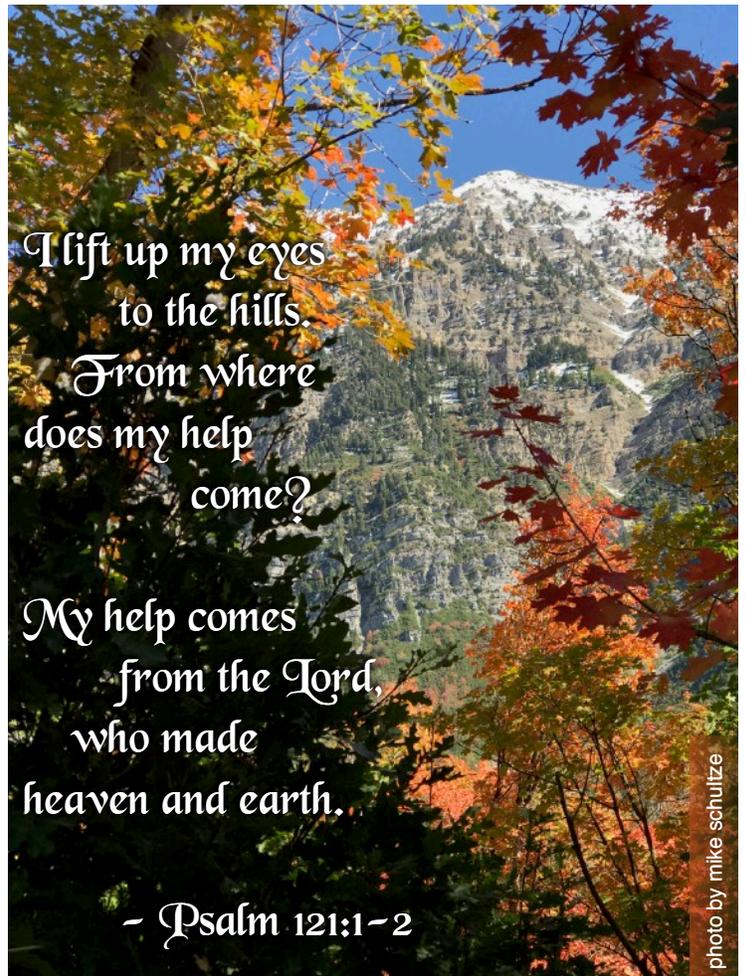

Parents need help parenting - especially at those most troubling times in life. For some, it could be those terrible two's - when the battle of the wills rages most fiercely. Two-year-olds are accustomed to ruling the roost, so to speak, from their infancy when all they had to do was utter a peep and everyone came running to attend their every whim. This was their "royalty phase" (though, I believe, Freud would have called this their Oral Stage). This pampered existence our sinful human nature could (and does) get real used to. It is just then that reality begins to hit for the two-year-old. As an infant when he or she was lying nearly motionless and helpless in the crib, vigilant parents had to be there at a moment's notice. But a toddling two-year-old is full of motion and fully capable of getting into things - dangerous things. Generally speaking, what is the first word our children learn? You guessed it - "No!" Even as adults we do not like being told "No!" No, Junior, you cannot stick your finger in that electrical socket. And, No, grown-up husband, you cannot get your fingers on every electrical gadget that Apple or Samsung puts out. We can't afford it! Ever since the Garden of Eden, we want what we cannot or should not have. We, in our sinful nature, are never satisfied.

Parents of tweens and teens know this. Add 10 years or so to those terrible two's and you have a parenting situation 10X worse, some will tell you. This is where parents need to remind themselves that they were teenagers, too (which can be a frightening reminder). At this point parents begin to question the infallibility of Scripture where it declares, "Behold, children are a heritage from the Lord, the fruit of the womb a reward" (Psalm 127:3). Are they a reward or a punishment for how we were as children? Ha ha! Maybe a little of both...

When the frustrations, challenges and mistakes of parenting have you looking down and feeling helpless, at the end of your rope, that's when we are most ready to hear an encouraging Word from the Lord. The psalmist says, "I lift my eyes to the hills. From where does my help come? My help comes from the Lord who made heaven and earth" (Ps 121). Help comes from the Lord.

That same psalm goes on to describe God's care for us like a vigilant parent watching over their beloved baby's crib, "Behold, He who keeps Israel will neither slumber nor sleep" (v4). God did not fall asleep on His watch when we in the Garden got into the poison in the cabinet, so to speak. He had a plan all along - a plan of redemption involving His own Only Begotten child, Second Person of the Holy Trinity, whom He would give up in order to gain back you and me. Such redemptive love does not make sense to us as parents - because for what evildoer would we ever contemplate giving up our own precious child in order to save that other one? Yet this is exactly what the Apostle Paul asserts in Romans 8:32, "He who did not spare his own Son, but gave Him up for us all—how will He not also, along with Him, graciously give us all things?" This mystifying, stupefying love prompted the great hymn writer, Charles Wesley, to pen,

Amazing love! How can it be,
That Thou, my God, shouldst die for me?

I lift up my eyes
to the hills.

From where does my help
come?

My help comes from the Lord, who made heaven and earth.

- Psalm 121:1-2

Not only does God die for us, but He lives - and He lives to make intercession for us as our great High Priest. Jesus, God in the flesh, grew up as a babe, a toddler, a teenager and a mentor of disciples who acted a whole lot like children - like we do - even though they were grown-ups. This Jesus can sympathize with this life's struggles. And, like I say to parents of teens, Jesus helps us keep the faith and keep going - just to get through those years. There is adulthood on the other side - and the reward of grateful offspring once again! And for us struggling pilgrims, there is the Land of Promise (the New Heaven and the New Earth) on the other side of this valley of sorrows. There is a reward for all those who endure to the end. We have a crown of life* awaiting us - along with a triumphant cheer from the angelic chorus to welcome us into glory. To all this it is already revealed as to how we will rightly respond,

...the twenty-four elders fall down before Him who sits on the throne and worship Him who lives for ever and ever.
*They lay their crowns before the throne and say:

"You are worthy, our Lord and God,
to receive glory and honor and power,
for You created all things and by Your will they were created and have their being." (Revelation 4:10-11, my emphasis)

Ah! The blessing of grateful children. That is what we want to see in our own children. That is what we want to be, ourselves, in honor of our own Heavenly Father who redeems us and re-creates us.

God help us: to all become what You want us to be - to Your honor and glory, in Jesus' Name. Amen.

ELDERS

As one of your Elders, I really want to thank everyone who was able to attend one or both of the Elder's barbecues. We had a great time putting them on and it seemed that everyone in attendance enjoyed the food and a wonderful time of fellowship. I cannot begin to tell you how much we enjoy doing these and how great it is to spend time with all of you. We always hope that these barbecues will create a real opportunity for a time of sharing between all of us. After all, we are the family of Christ! Everyone seemed to enjoy the food (which I really thought was great, but then I may be a bit prejudiced) and we really want to thank everyone for pitching in to help set up the tables, chairs, pop-ups and the serving tables not to mention all the additional help afterward to take everything down and clean up. Peace Lutheran Church is really blessed to have such an amazing church family.

We are now entering a church season as we prepare for Advent and the birth of our LORD, Jesus the Christ. The choir has begun its' new season of praise and worship and it seems apparent that our church council and the church committees are really moving forward with great plans for this body of Christ. I would like to encourage us all to continue to pray, praise and give thanks constantly for our Pastor, Deacon and all church leadership. This body of Christ moves evermore in the direction our Lord has chosen to us as we come to HIM and seek his wisdom and guidance.
